Area of Emphasis

Matt Jameson is a trial attorney who serves as chair of the firm's Construction Services and Litigation Services Groups. He also serves as the editor of Under Construction, the firm's construction law newsletter. He has had significant experience in construction bid protests, construction delay, acceleration, and inefficiency claims, and construction payment disputes (including bond and lien issues). He has also advised clients on the impact of a variety of technology issues impacting the construction industry. In addition, he has experience in handling complex breach of contract actions and environmental cost recovery cases. He has represented clients in trials and hearings before various courts, administrative tribunals, and alternative dispute resolution forums, including the Supreme Court of the United States, numerous United States District Courts and Courts of Appeals, various state courts, the Pennsylvania Board of Claims, and the American Arbitration Association.

Background

Mr. Jameson graduated from the Pennsylvania State University with a B.A. degree in 1988. He received his J.D., with honors, from the Rutgers University School of Law-Camden in 1992. While at Rutgers, Mr. Jameson served as Editor-in-Chief of the Rutgers Law Journal, where he also published two articles. In 1999, Mr. Jameson won the Judge James Hunter III Memorial Advanced Moot Court Competition. Prior to joining the firm in 1993, Mr. Jameson served a one-year clerkship with the Honorable Michael Patrick King, Presiding Judge of the Appellate Division of the Superior Court of New Jersey.
